① Four Designated Electric Household Appliances (4 E.H.A.)

The following four electric household appliances are required to be recycled under the Home Appliance Recycling Act: air conditioner units, TVs, fridges/freezers & washing machines/dryers.

See pages 3-4 for details on how to dispose.

See below for examples of the kinds of units that are the designated 4 E.H.A.

Please note that the following is not an exhaustive list. Please refer any specific questions to:

⑪ Illegal Dumping of Garbage is a Crime

◆ What is illegal dumping?

By the Waste Management and Public Cleansing Act, general waste is collected by local authorities, and industrial waste must be dealt with by entity who produced that waste, or passed on to an authorized garbage handler for handling.

In spite of the law, cases of flippant, illegal dumping of waste in places like mountain forests and the wilderness remain rife.

◆ Why is illegal dumping a problem?

① It exacerbates environmental pollution

Waste that is illegally dumped not only spoils the natural environment and regional scenery but can also be the cause of groundwater pollution and malodors. This can have an effect on our own daily lives and health.

② Considerable financial expense is incurred to return an area to its original condition.

③ If we do not eliminate illegal dumping, we cannot become a recycling-oriented society.

Waste that is illegally dumped may include materials that could have been recycled. If these materials are not disposed of in the correct way, then this only hastens resource depletion.

👉 Penalty

Illegal dumping of waste is punishable by law with up to 5 years of imprisonment or a fine of up to 10 million yen (corporate entities can be subject to a fine of up to 100 million yen).

⑫ Open Burning of Garbage is Prohibited

The open burning of garbage is prohibited by the Waste Disposal Law. Those found participating in the open burning of garbage are punishable by law.

◆ Incineration is Prohibited (Part 2, Article 16 of the Waste Disposal Law)

Aside from the exceptions listed below, no one is allowed to incinerate garbage.

Exceptions include the incineration of waste that is unavoidable for the public good or social conventions, or the incineration of waste that has a minimal impact on the surrounding living environment as specified by a Cabinet Order.

Exceptions to the Prohibition of Incineration

1. Incineration of waste necessary for the management of national or local public entity facilities e.g. riverbed grass, roadside grass, marine litter etc.
2. Incineration of waste necessary for the prevention of, emergency measures during, or recovery from natural disasters such as earthquakes, storm and flood damage, fires, frost damage and so forth
e.g. natural disaster emergency measures, fire prevention training (N.B. Even if it is to prevent frost damage, this does not include the burning of scrap tires as their burning gravely impedes environmental conservation)
3. Incineration of waste necessary to perform religious events or traditional customs e.g. New Year's events in which shimenawa rope and New Year's decorative pine trees etc. are burned, stupa memorial services
4. Incineration of waste unavoidable for the operation of agriculture, forestry, and fishery
e.g. slash-and-burn agriculture, burning of grass and twigs in the footpaths between rice fields, burning of litter caught in fish nets
(N.B. This does not include the burning of waste plastic, as its burning gravely impedes environmental conservation)
5. Minor open-air fires and other miscellaneous burning of waste that is normal in daily life
e.g. burning of fallen leaves, bonfires, campfires

🔥 Penalty

Open burning of waste is principally prohibited and is punishable by law up with to 5 years of imprisonment, a fine of up to 10 million yen, or both.

Even if your activity is deemed to be an exception to the prohibition of open burning, it may be subject to an improvement order or administrative guidance if it is deemed to have a negative impact on the environment or we receive any complaints.
